He had written his name on the back. All through he had lied his testimony, all knowing he had to help him. T. C. Robichette pleaded the youth's previous good character and the cleverness of the prisoner. Mr. Justice J. W. Ross said it was a very bad case of continuous crime which would not be tolerated.

Canal Traffic Falling Off.

Other than the fact that river conditions generally show improvement and increase all along the line, the volume of traffic on the canals, so far, has decreased quite noticeably in comparison with last year. Up to the end of July there was a 20 per cent. fall in tonnage, compared with the same period last year. The July showing is far better, and continued improvement is expected during the autumn months.

Dover, Aug. 12.—Montague Holbein, the well known English long distance swimmer, has come to heavy water this year, while the strike on the Great Lakes, and the accident at the St. Lawrence River, have been responsible. The decrease, however, is practically on every line of freight and passenger shipping on the canals. The July showing is far better, and continued improvement is expected during the autumn months.

The Lake View Hotel, having the largest number of guests ever here this year, while the strike on the Great Lakes, and the accident at the St. Lawrence River, have been responsible. The July showing is far better, and continued improvement is expected during the autumn months.

Bethune, Aug. 12.—Albert Barowski was accidentally killed here yesterday. He was moving and tare across the lake, and fell into the water. Barowski was under the horses. He leaves a wife and children. His brother, who had last year in a mill accident.

New York, Aug. 12.—Eliza Gingras, the young Irish lacemaker whose trial in Chicago for the murder of her employer, after an unusual attempt because of her sensational charge that an attempt had been made to force her into "white slavery," sailed for her home country yesterday.

After her acquittal, Orangeburg in the west and in this city faced a task to send her back to Ireland and start her in the lace business there. Before she left, the sail was unashamed to express her thanks to the benevolent for this assistance. She discussed her case without bitterness.

THE TRUTH.

Eliza Gingras Believes She Will Be Able to Convince Relatives That She Told the Truth.

New York, Aug. 12.—Eliza Gingras, the young Irish lacemaker whose trial in Chicago for the murder of her employer, after an unusual attempt because of her sensational charge that an attempt had been made to force her into "white slavery," sailed for her home country yesterday.

After her acquittal, Orangeburg in the west and in this city faced a task to send her back to Ireland and start her in the lace business there. Before she left, the sail was unashamed to express her thanks to the benevolent for this assistance. She discussed her case without bitterness.

"Although the jury found that I was not guilty of the law saying," said Miss Gingras, "it has been a matter of great regret that I should have cast the aspersions that I did in what I said about who had caused the trouble. I hope that I will be able to prove to my folks in Ireland that I have not been guilty of that untruth."

Miss Gingras was accompanied by Mrs. Grace Vandusen Cooke, of Boston, who had taken a deep interest in her case. Mrs. Cooke said that there was no truth in the report that Miss Gingras had been offered a position in America.

The newspaper men at the pier, who said she had been offered a position in America, asked her if she would be glad to give any information by wire to a court order that would be best for her to leave the country."

LOST ALL HIS POSSESSIONS.

A Russian named Nicholas Ziganza, of Whitford, north of Mundare, met with a serious loss last Tuesday morning when his house, containing all his possessions, was destroyed by fire. The residence was one of the best in the town.

Mr. Ziganza was one of the most thriving men. He had also a family of seven children. He is a man whom the world is well known says he is one of the most remarkable men in the country. He is a man who has given to the world many good things, and is visiting their married daughters.

Miss Gillis was visiting old friends here this week and incidentally making business inquiries.

THE DIVORCE EVIL ON INCREASE IN CANADA

Figures Showing Work of the Divorce Committee at Ottawa—Proceeds of Ottawa Parliamentary Reception is Excessive—Will Cost at Least $200.

Ottawa, Aug. 12.—The military will divorce and the increasing extent to which it is being used in the practice of infidelity and natural marriage, is indicated in the official records of the divorce committee of the Senate of Canada! The figures show a gradual increase since Confederation, and a noteworthy rise in the last year or two. In 1867 there were 1,000 cases before the divorce committee; in 1886, 1,200; in 1896, 1,400; in 1906, 1,600. The cause comes from Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and the other provinces. Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and British Columbia have divorce courts of their own, but there is no case against the Prince Edward Island. The extent to which dissolved marriages are now sought is indicated in the number of divorce petitions granted. Many are applied for, and fail in the great majority of cases, on the efficiency of the supporting testimony.

An Expensive Process.

From the records of the church of society the cases originate almost entirely; for divorce, obtained by act of Parliament, is a long and costly procedure. It is true there is provision for dealing with cases in forms parallel to those of the church, but the average divorce secured at Ottawa costs over $500. There is a $250 deposit required, and the amount of money that must be added to cover the cost of law, the expenses of whom are often very heavy in the preparation of the case. Then come the fees of counsel, and lawyers who appear before parliamentarians, who are paid by the hour. Of what would ordinarily be taxed in a court of law.

A Considerable Increase.

How divorce has increased since Confederation the following figures disclose. In 1867 68 cases were granted, in 1871, one; '72, two; '73, three; '74, one; '75, one; '77, four; '78, three; '79, one; '80, one; '81, five; '82, one; '83, seven; '84, one; '85, six; '86, three; '87, one; '88, three; '89, four; '90, 166; '91, two; '92, one; '93, one; '94, one; '95, one; '96, one; '97, one; '98, one; '99, four; '00, 166; '01, two; '02, one; '03, one; '04, one; '05, one; '06, one; '07, one; '08, one; '09, one; '10, one; '11, one; '12, one. The last season eclipsed all records with a total of sixteen. The grand total since Confederation is 1,600.

PROCEDURE IS WELL DEFENDED.
A specific and well defined procedure is followed. The first step can easily be filled in filling the petition "for relief" by way of divorce, and this goes to the appropriate committee of the Senate on the case. If it reaches the committee, enabling grounds for the complaint are shown, and the bill is introduced and put through as any private legislation would be.

Divorce is Not Required. The statutory office which has to be proven is that of adultery, desertion, nonsupport, or some other ground, or grounds which enter into a finding; but these may justly separate them as far as the law of divorce is concerned.

MUST BE NO COMPROMISE. Another question is whether it is established in the case that "collusion or connivance," as the rule states, between the parties in intent to secure the dissolution by means of a settlement. Care is exercised as to whether of papers and the proper action will be taken. The Canadian Courts of Justice have other remedies. In a considerable number of cases divorce is not entered upon, but the requirements of separation are added, or if the party is guilty of desertion, the Court of Common Pleas will grant a decree nisi, and the party will not be remanded in the absence of evidence to justify that course.

WILL ENFORCE SUNDAY LAW.
Nigara Falls Souvenir Dealers Must Close Up.

Nagara, Aug. 12.—On Saturday afternoon C. H. Main, of the Ontario Frontier Police, said that afterword, he had received orders from the Commissioner of Police to the effect that all violators of the Lord's Day Act must be prosecuted.

The police force, which has been organized to enforce the new legislation, will follow any attempt of the traders to keep their places of business open during the day.

Since there are hundreds of ex-caribou in the city at the present time, the police force has been placed in the hands of the members, but rather than let the Lord's Day House be taken to stand that the Senate committee is essentially the court of appeal, the police force will continue to do its duty.

PRINCIPAL WAS DISMISSED.
Put His Fists on His Desk During Glass Hours.

Bethel, Aug. 12.—Principal Gant has been suspended by the First Public School Board, as a result of dissatisfaction among the staff over his manner of dealing with the school hours. At a special meeting of the board, Mr. Gant stated that he was not responsible for the dissatisfaction. His letter was filed to a vote of six to five in favor of his removal.

He is believed to be a good teacher, but the figures given indicate a more or less perfunctory attitude toward the work in view.

GAEILIC WEEK IN DUBLIN.
An Opera Performed in the Ancient Language of Erin.

Dublin, Aug. 12.—This has been Dublin League week in Dublin. The annual circuses, and assembly of the Irish people, have been held here, and several applications already submitted for the next session of the festival have been received. One of the attractions of the occasion is an exhibition of Irish made articles, such as hats, shoes, and so on.

Another special feature of the meeting was the performance of the music of the ancient language of Ireland.

Father O'Kelly, a priest in Sligo, conducted the orchestra, and the music was written by Robert D'Oyley. The performance was adroit, and the Irish language proved especially suitable for the dramatic portions.

Seattle, Washington.

The W.L.C. will probably be completed and service running by December 1, 1811, and for our own protection we hope that the W.L.C. Vancouver in working order at the same time." This was a declaration of Mr. J. C. Taylor, president of the new trans-continent line, to a reporter who asked him as to the condition of affairs on the western end of the line.

Braganza Asks the Smiths to Pay Them and is Refused.

London, Aug. 12.—The engagement of Prince Braganza to Miss Anna Stewart seems to have been the cause of the present difficulties, and natural marriage, is indicated in the official records of the divorce committee of the Senate of Canada! The figures show a gradual increase since Confederation, and a noteworthy rise in the last year or two. PRINCIPAL WAS DISMISSED.
Put His Fists on His Desk During Glass Hours.

Bethel, Aug. 12.—Principal Gant has been suspended by the First Public School Board, as a result of dissatisfaction among the staff over his manner of dealing with the school hours. At a special meeting of the board, Mr. Gant stated that he was not responsible for the dissatisfaction. His letter was filed to a vote of six to five in favor of his removal.

He is believed to be a good teacher, but the figures given indicate a more or less perfunctory attitude toward the work in view.

GAEILIC WEEK IN DUBLIN.
An Opera Performed in the Ancient Language of Erin.

Dublin, Aug. 12.—This has been Dublin League week in Dublin. The annual circuses, and assembly of the Irish people, have been held here, and several applications already submitted for the next session of the festival have been received. One of the attractions of the occasion is an exhibition of Irish made articles, such as hats, shoes, and so on.

Another special feature of the meeting was the performance of the music of the ancient language of Ireland.

Father O'Kelly, a priest in Sligo, conducted the orchestra, and the music was written by Robert D'Oyley. The performance was adroit, and the Irish language proved especially suitable for the dramatic portions.

W.L.C. COMPLETED IN 1811.
Seattle, Washington.

The W.L.C. will probably be completed and service running by December 1, 1811, and for our own protection we hope that the W.L.C. Vancouver in working order at the same time." This was a declaration of Mr. J. C. Taylor, president of the new trans-continent line, to a reporter who asked him as to the condition of affairs on the western end of the line.

ANGLO-CANADA TRADE: LESSONS IT TEACHES

Decades Show Marked Fluctuations
—Big Gain For the United States
—Small Decline in Canada's Article
For Daily Mail.

Writing in the London Daily Mail about Anglo-Canadian trade, J. Hall Schooling says:

The present lately published in Canada has thrown considerable light upon our position as a seller in Canadian markets, even though the statement is based upon the Canadian records for six or for isolated years. But in this matter, as in other departments of international commerce, it is desirable to survey a long, continuous period, say, half a century, of the fluctuation of single years of trade. In other words, it is desirable to examine trade tendencies from time to time over the course of world commerce.

In this paper Canada's imports for consumption in Canada have been examined during the whole period 1880-1908. And the results show considerable yearly average during each successive decade.

For example, looking at Table A, during the first decade 1880-89 we see that during the decade 1890-99, there was a large increase in the value of Canada's imports (totalled $90 million pounds ($90,000,000 per year), and that having the latest figures available, Canadian purchases from its amount to only 76 million pounds ($7,600,000 per year) in the same period. This is the method of ascertaining trade tendencies here used.

Canada's British preferential tariff began.

Course of Trade—United Kingdom, a prolonged fall; then a rise. United States, a steady and continuous rise. Other countries, a large and continuous rise. All countries—A large rise.

When we look at Table A, we obtain some information soundly based thereon which clearly shows the change in our position as a seller in Canadian markets, and also upon our working of the policy of preferential trade.

We see, in Table A, that Canada's imports from the United Kingdom, in the main, have fallen. Then a rise. United States, a steady and continuous rise. Other countries, a large and continuous rise. All countries—A large rise.

This means that British goods entering Canada are taxed less heavily than those from the United States. And looking at the later years given in Table A, we see that Canada's imports from the United States accompanied by a considerable rise in Canada's purchases from us. Table A shows that Canada has been successful in stopping the rapid fall in our proportion of Canada's imports. That question is settled.

But in any case we see a large actual increase in Canada's purchases from us since we have had the benefit of Canada's British preferential tariff. And this increase, in place of a continued decrease means that some additional import duty must have been paid in the United Kingdom as the accompaniment to the grant of a preference to us.

Purchase from the United States. Look now at the vast increase in Canada's purchases from the United States. Table A shows a large and continuous rise from $39,500,000 yearly to $200,000,000.

I mention incidentally that the United States passed the United Kingdom in Canada's markets in the year 1883, and has gone ahead in every subsequent year. Yearly results are not given out in the table, as it is based upon decades. "Other Countries"—namely, countries other than United Kingdom and the United States—show that their sales in Canada from $2,000,000 yearly to 127,000,000 yearly. And Table A also shows that Canada's imports have increased vastly—from 21.3 to 48.8 million pounds yearly.

The selling will be short and sharp in this department; there's not a doubt about it. This important sale of the year is bound to make this announcement doubly interesting. Take your choice on Saturday from our superb stock of dainty summer dresses for

To the Canada, a country working under Protection, with a vast increase in her imports. We see that another "Other Country" in the United States has left us far behind as a seller to Canada, although a quarter of a century ago the United States was the largest United States as sellers to Canada.

The "Other Countries" in Table A, the United States, have increased their sales to Canada, and with scarcely an exception, countries working under Protection.

But the United Kingdom, working by sham Free Trade, has suffered a progressive decline. Canada's purchases follow by a large rise, due not to sham free trade, but to the very policy of Imperial preference, partial demanded by sham free traders in England as injurious.

It is as it is at present, which is contained in Table A. Canada's Imports, 1880-1908. Containing the names of Canada's imports and showing various countries' share of Canada's imports, and showing the yearly average during each decade.
